TOKYO, Dec. 19.—Ambassador Joseph C. Grew today dealt a staggering blow to Japanese "tongue-in-cheek" diplomacy with the blunt warning that America now is ready to back up her interests in the Orient with direct and uncompromising action.

"America is determined to care for both its obligations and its rights," Grew said.

Diplomatic Sensation

His speech created a major diplomatic sensation, for it was made at a farewell luncheon for Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, who will leave soon for Washington as Japanese ambassador.

Grew—in the same setting where he delivered his "straight from the horse's mouth" admonition to Japan last year, arose after a politely platitudinous speech by Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka and launched into a stiff exposition of America's attitude.

On the theme that "actions speak louder than words," the outspoken American ambassador said "there

TOKYO, Dec. 19.—Warning that Japan will "remain loyal" to Germany and Italy, Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka today implored the United States to use "common sense" and keep out of the European war or any clash with Japan in the Pacific.

Addressing a farewell luncheon for Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, who will soon go to Washington as Japanese ambassador, Matsuoka declared Japan does not desire to antagonize the United States. United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew presided at the luncheon.

Good Send-Off

Diplomatic quarters regarded Matsuoka's speech as "mild" and designed to give Nomura a good send-off. The Japanese foreign minister said:

"I wish to leave no doubt whatever in the mind of any American citizen that Japan is and will remain loyal to her allies, and that Japan's foreign policy will revolve in the future around the three-

BERLIN, Dec. 19.—President Roosevelt's plan to lend or lease huge quantities of war materials to Britain brought the retort in informed German quarters today that the American president is "playing with dynamite."

It appeared that the Nazis may take issue with President Roosevelt openly through the medium of the German press.

One authoritative source remarked:

"Developments are in progress in the German press."

Officials Silent

Official government quarters maintained their silence regarding the American program for aiding Britain, but authoritative Berlin circles were more outspoken and said that in their opinion the Roosevelt project is "dynamite."

"How does Roosevelt get that way?" one of these spokesmen asked, couching his query in American slang.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau today disclosed that President Roosevelt has authorized the British purchasing mission to go ahead with negotiations for several billion dollars worth of American war materials, but not to close any deals until Congress approves the executive's lease-and-lend plan.

Acting upon the President's instructions, Morgenthau said that he himself, had conveyed this word to the British and that in return they had handed him a master list of their requirements.

The treasury secretary added that the British would suspend signing of contracts—with the single exception of purchase of 60 new merchant ships now being built in this country for them—and would make no new ones until Congress acts.

Simultaneously, official quarters revealed that in addition to the 60 vessels, a cash purchase of 50 other cargo ships is expected to be made before the week-end by British interests. Some of the 50 may be Danish vessels now tied up in American ports which their Danish owners are anxious to sell.

ATHENS, Dec. 19.—Leaving fire and destruction in their wake, Italian troops today retreated from the vital Chimara-Tepelini defense route in south central Albania and started to fall back toward Valona, one of the two main seaports still in Italian hands.

Bayonet-waving Greek troops overran the Italian left wing at the important Albanian junction of Klisura after capturing a range of hills dominating the town. The Italians were obliged to abandon defense positions at the eastern entrance to Klisura.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A Budapest dispatch quoted the Greek legation in Belgrade as announcing Klisura had been occupied.)

Gigantic Fires

Reconnaissance flights by Greek and British airplanes disclosed gigantic fires raging in various villages north of Tepelini, indicating the Italians were burning whatever material they are compelled to leave behind.

Military sources in Athens said that operations were developing satisfactorily on the entire front. Available information indicated that official announcement of sensational Greek successes would be made

LONDON, Dec. 19.—Britain's "holiday" from German bombing assaults passed the 48-hour mark today, but authoritative quarters in London felt it meant a quick German blow—somewhere.

Meanwhile, R. A. F. bombing attacks on objectives in both Germany and Italy during the night were announced by the British air ministry.

British circles said they believed cessation of Nazi air attacks on Britain meant Chancellor Hitler is conserving his resources in planes, aviators, gasoline and oil for a speedy, surprise attack, but added that where and when it will occur is "anybody's guess."

They pointed out, however, that several British cabinet ministers have strongly warned Britain that an attempted German invasion must be expected, possibly earlier than heretofore anticipated. But they added:

"We are prepared on all fronts."

CAIRO, Dec. 19.—Heavy fighting raged around Italy's important Libyan coastal base of Bardia today as mechanized British shock troops punctured powerful fortifications protecting the town.

While large numbers of Fascist troops fled westward toward Tobruk and Derna, other Italian rear guard detachments put up a desperate resistance in the teeth of withering British fire.

Advanced British mechanized units, supported by artillery which constantly pounded the city, brought utmost pressure to bear on the Italians and at some points fierce hand-to-hand combats were in progress.

Prisoners Are Problem

Reports received in Cairo said the number of Italian prisoners taken by the British was swelling to such an extent that the captives were presenting a "serious problem" to the advancing British forces.

Latest dispatches from the battle zone said the British pierced the Bardia forts and were fighting inside the Perimeter pillboxes and machine gun nests.

Italian tank traps were stormed by British assault troops, it was stated, and the entire British military machine was tightening its deadly pincer around Bardia, while the base itself was incessantly shelled from the sea and bombed from the air.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—With a hint that Germany may have called off her air attacks on England in preparation for early invasion, Prime Minister Winston Churchill today pleaded for "unceasing vigilance" and predicted a major counter-offensive by Great Britain when the proper time comes.

The danger of invasion is "ever present," Churchill told the House of Commons, but Britain is striking hard at her enemies, he said, with particular reference to royal air force raids on Germany and the British offensive in Libya, which he indicated has barely begun.

British losses in the western desert offensive are less than 1,000 men, the prime minister said.

Cautions On Undue Optimism

Frequently cheered when he told of British successes on the African front, Churchill cautioned his hearers against undue optimism. Stressing the "disquieting" extent of British shipping losses and the omnipresent menace of invasion, Churchill gave the country this new watchword:

"Our vigilance must be unceasing."

With regard to the situation in Libya, Churchill said:

"We are continuing to attack Bardia with strong and increasing

That Is All

(International News Service)

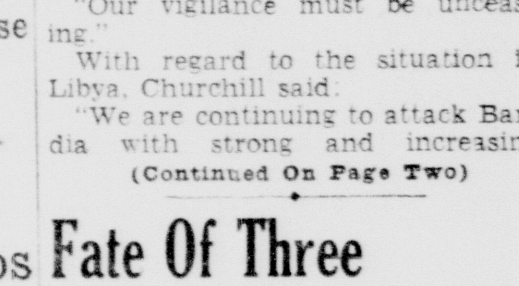

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—The fate of three steamers, apparently in British convoy, which yesterday sent out distress radio calls reporting submarine attacks, remained a mystery today.

No further word has been heard from the trio of vessels, all of whom reported that they had been torpedoed in the north Atlantic several hundred miles off the Hebrides.

The vessels were the Dutch Tanker Pendrecht, 10,746 tons; the British Steamer Napier Star, 12,196 tons; and the Norwegian Tanker Dalfonn, 9,680 tons.

In a broadcast picked up by NBC in New York, the German radio announced the sinking of two more ships in the Atlantic, but gave no further details.

Shortage Of W.I.A. Projects In State

Employment Is Below Maximum

Could Employ Many More On W. P. A. If Projects Were Available

LACK OF PROJECTS REAL HANDICAP

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent
HARRISBURG, Dec. 19.—Thousands of W. P. A. workers are threatened with the loss of their jobs during the winter months due to the lack of sufficient projects, it was disclosed today. This is in addition to the 12,000 women who face dismissal on January 27 unless the state agrees to appropriate increased funds for the support of the state's 250 sewing projects.

Furthermore, state WPA officials revealed, thousands now on the state dole who could otherwise be employed by the WPA will have to remain on state relief until spring at least, when warmer weather is expected to bring new projects.

Could Employ More
Right now the W. P. A. is prepared to employ an additional 13,000 men, thus removing approximately 50,000 persons from the state relief rolls, if sufficient projects can be provided.

Thousands of WPA workers during the past six months have been relinquishing their federal work-relief jobs for private employment as the national defense program is stepped up, but the vacancies they created have not all been filled. It was stated.

If sufficient projects had been available, an additional 32,000 men could have been employed during the past half year, for the quota of 155,000 men and women which the state WPA administration is empowered to employ has not been filled since it was established last July 1, it was disclosed.

Thus the state has not obtained the full benefit of increased business as openings on the WPA became available with the return of unemployed men to private industry, it was explained.

REPORT ITALIANS ARE FALLING BACK TOWARD VALONA

shortly. Greek victories of the last three days, particularly in the southern sector, may prove the Italians' inability to consolidate their stand anywhere in Albania, it was said.

To Abandon Kilsura
Reports from the Chimara-Tepelini-Kilsura battlefield indicated that the Italians were preparing to abandon Kilsura, which was described as Albania's "most strategic and impregnable stronghold."

The first Italian detachments already are streaming out of the city. Fighting continued between the Greek vanguard and Italian rear guard troops in the Chimara sector. Greek artillery shelled Italian positions in the zone northwest of Tepelini, where the Italians were falling back, leaving huge quantities of war material behind.

In the northern sector, Greek troops advanced slowly but steadily through a foot-deep snowfall. The Italians abandoned one position after another under heavy Greek pressure.

Successful Operations
The Greek high command gave new details as to the exact locale of the fighting, but merely announced in its communiqué:

"In successful local operations at various points on the front we again took numerous prisoners, including officers. Much material also was captured."

Fall of Kilsura, nine miles from Elbasan, would put the Greeks in excellent position for a drive against that important Italian base, which is now one of the major Greek objectives.

On the northern sector, military advisors said, the Greeks occupied important strategic positions despite heavy Italian artillery fire.

EDITOR'S NOTE: A dispatch from Budapest said it was reported there that the Italians carried out a successful counter-attack in the Kamai mountains, where scores of soldiers—Greek and Italian—were frozen to death in the ice and snow-covered trenches.

Seizure of the ridge dominating Kilsura, which immediately was placed under Greek artillery bombardment, climaxed a long battle and leveled the last major obstacle to actual Greek occupation of the town.

Supply and munitions depots in Kilsura already had been set on fire by units of the Italian 11th army withdrawing from the town under a hail of artillery shells.

Greek bayonet charges cleared the mountain height after the Hellenic warriors won command of Kilsura Pass.

are some points on which we are in accord—our desire for peace. Other points are open to controversy. I won't deal with those in detail.

Not Sentimental
"However, I think I must relieve the foreign minister of his misapprehension that the interests of the American people in China are largely sentimental."

Well-informed quarters said that Grew was even more stern in a private conversation with Matsukata. The ambassador was said to have told the foreign minister that Japan no longer will be "bothered" by further American protests over alleged violations of American interests in China.

And Grew said, by the same token, America will not be satisfied by Japan's policies.

Grew's declaration, which presumably had the blessing of the administration in Washington, came after Matsukata reaffirmed that Japan will "remain loyal" to Italy and Germany.

The foreign minister asked America to use "common sense" and keep out of the European war or any clash with Japan in the Pacific.

Strikes Back Quickly

The American diplomat struck back quickly with his illusion-shattering declaration.

"I have read the foreign minister's statement that Japan will 'shut the door on no one.' Mr. Matsukata has lived in the United States long enough (he formerly was ambassador to Washington) to know that the American people are fundamentally peace-minded. But he knows also that they are firmly determined on certain matters—their obligations and rights."

"He knows also that with the American people the only thing that counts are actions and facts—regardless of the persuasive garb in which they may be dressed."

"Let us say of nations as well as individuals: 'By their fruits shall ye know them.'"

American business men were greatly heartened by Grew's statement, especially in view of the fact that Admiral Nomura is going to Shanghai before Washington. In Shanghai, it was believed, the new ambassador will meet Japanese naval authorities to discuss the question of traffic on the Yangtze river—a problem highly important to American commerce.

Grew presided over the luncheon, and made his speech after Nomura said Japan does not want to antagonize the United States.

men, closed in around Buchanan, as he rested by a small fire. They called upon him to surrender, but instead he opened fire. A fusillade from the possemen felled him after he had fired one shot. He was rushed to a hospital in Middletown where he died.

Buchanan's flight began on Tuesday, after he shot and killed Deputy Sheriff George W. Fisher, 63, wounded Middleboro Police Chief George Minton, 48, seriously, and shot Patrolman P. L. Perry through the hand.

The officers had gone to Buchanan's trailer, parked outside the town, with a warrant charging him with theft of $2,500 worth of furs and jewels in Virginia. He pretended to submit to arrest and the officers, expecting no trouble, stepped into the trailer.

Buchanan suddenly jumped upon Chief Minton, grabbed his gun, and began shooting. Fisher was killed instantly.

Huge Captures
"The figure of 30,000 prisoners is a considerable under-estimate. We have captured 100 serviceable guns, 50 tanks and huge supplies of materials."

British losses up to the night of Dec. 16 were 72 killed and 738 wounded. One whole (Italian) division laid down its guns to far inferior forces, while the royal air force has successfully contested against odds of three, four or five to one."

Churchill's declaration was made on the eve of the Christmas recess. "We can separate for recess with some sense of composure and satisfaction," he said.

"But it would be disaster for anyone to suppose that supreme dangers—mortal dangers—are past. It would be lack of prudence amounting to a crime if vigilance were relaxed by the armies at home or if we in any way assumed that the danger of invasion has passed."

of rugged terrain and adverse weather conditions. All bodies were charred and were found in the wreckage.

The time of the crash was set at 10:45 a. m., when residents of Idyllwild and Pine Cone, nearby settlements, heard an explosion after seeing the plane overhead.

Harris Merchant of Pine Cone said the plane "barely missed" his house as it swung low over the mountain slope and then cut a quarter-mile swath through the trees until it crashed.

Apparently the mountain had loomed out of the mist so suddenly the pilot did not have time to cut the switch, for the plane burst into flames as soon as it struck. Wreckage was strewn over a half-mile area, one of the four motors being found 100 feet away. Several large trees were clipped off in the fatal plunge of the ship.

The plane, a DB-17, was on a routine flight when the disaster occurred. It had been cruising leisurely through broken clouds at about 8,000 feet and was about 30 miles from March Field when it hit the mountain.

bankment, is cited by residents of that district. Had Moore been fifty feet farther up Wilmington avenue, the accident would have been of a far more serious nature, as there is a drop of around fifty feet at that point. Small trees prevented Moore's truck from plunging further into the hollow.

In the small park, adjoining the Penn Power sub-station on the west side, there are figures depicting the "Nativity" scene with the inscription, "Good Will Toward Men."

With more than a week of December left, the number of automobile fatalities for the county is seven greater than last year, while the same condition is noticed in surrounding counties. This may be due in some measure to a relaxing in vigilance on the speed limit on the highways. Last year, when the measure was enforced rather rigidly, the number of fatalities had a new low in the county, with only 22 traffic deaths. This year the number to date is 29.

Christmas shopping really got under way "in a big way" Wednesday evening when the first horde of evening shoppers took advantage of the local stores being open for business during the evening hours. The streets were filled with shoppers of all ages, despite the clear, but chilly weather.

In Sheffield, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Audino and sons, Charles, Dominick, Frank and Fred, of this city, who have a hunting camp there, and who went up early in the season to bag big game, return with a most successful report. All the men got a doe with the exception of Charles, who bagged a seven point buck, weighing 175 pounds.

CHRISTMAS THOUGHTS

THERE is something touching these days in the street scene of grown-ups, their noses pressed against the shop windows, admiring the Christmas toy displays, while a short distance away newscasters are selling screaming headlines of war, world collapse and enslavement by Hitler.

At first it does seem hard to realize, with all the world's troubles dimming in their ears day after day, that people still have time to turn to thoughts of dolls, toy electric trains, tinkling music boxes, fluffy and frothy presents from the land of make-believe.

Perchance it represents a deep yearning to go back to the security and peace of those Christmases in their early childhood. Many of the adults gazing at toys are too old to have small children. They are just looking, and thinking, and trying to get away from the world's worries, for a few minutes anyway.

One of the strangest things about this picture is that so much of what Americans remember of Christmas—like the Christmas tree, the shining stars, Kris Kringle and Christmas cookies—can be traced back to the old-fashioned German. Once when Germans were thought of there was a vision of tiny mountain towns, peaceful snow scenes, Christmas bells and funny little toys.

Yet today German armies are the chief exponents of death and destruction. Today, at the order of perhaps the most unlovely character in all history, Germans are slaughtering men, women and children in furtherance of a wild dream that they are destined to rule the world. To those not directly on the scene, the whole thing seems like fantastic unreality.

THOSE FAITHFUL CARRIER BOYS

Among the reminders before Christmas comes—remember the faithful newsboy, who brings your paper each evening, without fail. These are days when the paper may be a few minutes late, due to the rush of advertising, but the youngster whose one aim is to serve you the year 'round deserves to be remembered at this time of year.

Many a householder looks back now with pride, when he, too, carried "papers on the route," and how at Christmas time his customers generously thought of him, and said it in a friendly and substantial manner. We are printing this Yuletide tip for you, feeling confident of your enthusiastic reaction.

And will there be smiles and a real merry Christmas greeting from your carrier when you say it, with true appreciation of his faithful visit despite hail or wind, rain or snow. Nothing deters your carrier from the full performance of his appointed rounds!

EXPANDING HEMISPHERE DEFENSES

Eight U. S. geologists will be hard at work all this winter in Latin-American countries studying possible new sources of minerals vital to hemisphere defense. One will make a three-months' study of Brazil's manganese; others will survey chromite and manganese in Cuba; tin, tungsten and antimony in Bolivia.

The results of their studies will be available to agencies of the U. S. government in negotiating to aid new industrial developments. In many of these countries there are known to be untapped deposits of vital minerals. Their development will be a prosperity factor for the countries concerned, and a safety factor for the United States and all the western hemisphere.

Spending $25,000 on this investigation is likely to repay itself many times in assuring that development is undertaken only in fields where it is worth while, and in discovery of new possibilities for defense of the western world with its own resources.

WINTER COMING ON APACE

Some time Sunday we shall slip over into winter. This is not a weather prediction. It is just one of those astronomical events that have been found convenient for making a division of seasons.

"Just what does happen that day?" some may ask. The answer should be easy for the boys and girls who are in school, but older folk forget. The earth, spinning around like a great top, keeps its north pole pointing at a spot in the northern sky near to the north star. Now, the north star is not straight up over our heads. It is down 23.5 degrees from our straight-up point.

So it happens that, as the earth makes its year-long journey around the sun, this tipping of the earth's axis makes the sun appear to journey back and forth across our equator. When the farthest point south is reached so that the sun at noon is overhead at the tropic of Capricorn, we are in the northern hemisphere have our longest nights and shortest days.

That day, December 22, is called the beginning of winter.

TWO ITALIES

People cannot be blamed for joining with a certain gay spitefulness in the mockery now going the rounds at the expense of Italy. It seems almost as though time had stored up its revenge measure for measure against the day of Mussolini's stumbling. It is the Greeks the world has to thank for calling the turn it hoped for.

Yet through it all, a commentator reminds us, the world should not forget that other Italy which survives behind the scowling mask of Mussolini. That land and that people he never could make over in his own forbidding image. There are a thousand potent immortalities that defy him. The Italy to which reference is made, the Italy that lives in the hearts of our own people of Italian birth, is no modernistic fascist masquerade.

They remember it as a land of poetry and sunshine and quick laughter. It is Venice, queen of cities, and Rome, beside which every other metropolis of the world stands as an upstart village. It is Naples and the Bay of Naples lying indolent in the noontime. It is small hamlets in valleys or perched on the side of hills bejeweled with grape arbors. It is rugged mountains with their immortal waterfalls and kindly shores washed with Mediterranean purple.

But the Italy of yore cannot be cast up in categories either spiritual or profane. It sometimes seems that this other Italy is almost everything but what Mussolini is trying to make of it.

It would sort of even things up if we had to shovel either snow or coal in the summer.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

FORCED FEEDING IS BAD

About the hardest thing I know is to prevail upon a "bright" mother to let the child eat. She wants to do the eating for him. Until he is old enough to feed himself solid or semi-solid foods—the average child is able at 12 months—she will force food on him no matter whether he wants it or not.

Then when the child is 2, 3, 4 or even 7 or 8, she will go on forcing food on him. And what an orgy of emotions she and the defenseless child will experience! The college graduate and those who read books and articles on essential vitamins, what foods the baby should have and how much of it, may be the worst. To add to her trouble, her pediatrician who knows his onions, spinach and carrots may employ poor psychology and keep nagging at the distracted mother to get the food into the child so he will gain. As a result the mother may, with increasing jitters and decreasing skill, cause the annoyed little tyke to eat less and less.

Think of Baby's Future Appetite

I've given up a lot of these "brany" but bewildered young mothers as hopeless in relation to feeding problems. They refuse to reason. They can think only in terms of how much food the child eats right now and how much he weighs at this very minute. They can't think in terms of the child's appetite a month hence or his weight then. They resolve to put the food into the kid or burst, and they burst!

A certain worried mother writes of a boy 2 years old. "He has refused to feed himself and be fed for about five weeks now, any vegetables, regardless of how prepared, no cereals, this week no eggs, no potatoes in any form. He eats only fruit, any kind of meat, little bread, and plenty milk. He will be satisfied just to drink milk and water. I admit both of us are nervous and easily upset—it is a strain to go through."

Give Small Portions

While I had little faith that my advice would be followed, I wrote this mother she should feed that child no longer. "Place a very small portion, a quarter of a teaspoonful, say, of a desirable food on a plate with a spoon beside the plate on a low table or chair. Nothing more, always just one food at a time. Call it to his attention with your hand, your lips sealed. If he does not choose to eat it after four minutes, let him feed with your hands, your lips still sealed, and end the meal. Only water until the next regular feeding time. If, however, he eats this food, give him in like manner a small portion of another single essential food. Proceed in this fashion so long as he chooses to eat. Let him always choose—between what you offer him or nothing. If he develops nausea or refuses food for two days or so, call your doctor."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

FOREIGN POLICIES

A foreign policy that has weathered the shifting tides of events for more than a century must be rooted in statesmanship as sound as it is farsighted. This has been the achievement of the Monroe Doctrine, first set forth on December 2, just one hundred seventeen years ago.

The United States in 1823 was a Republic only thirty-four years old. Its total population was less than ten million. Yet in the span of that period, it had been forced to fight for its right to the freedom of the seas—once in the distant Mediterranean against Algiers and in the War of 1812 in waging these wars, the United States was also seeking to secure for herself a place among the family of nations and to win that respect from other great powers which would discourage them from further attempts at showing around the fledgling Republic.

President Monroe's historic message to Congress simply served further notice on conquest-hungry powers abroad to cease tampering with our interests and welfare. "We would consider any attempt on their system to any portion of our hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and security." The "doctrine" is as clear-cut as that. Monroe's alert mission even then saw the Americas as an interdependent unit. That view is today a cornerstone of our foreign policy as well as of military and naval strategy. Both policy and strategy agree that nothing less than hemisphere defense is to leave ourselves woefully ill defended.

Pan-American solidarity, both economic and military, is easier said than sought, easier sought than achieved. The path to co-operation among the American Republics is marked by serious obstacles, but the obstacles notwithstanding, along that path the nation must go. Today, for more than one hundred years, the peace and security of the United States are linked to the peace and security of the Western Hemisphere.

The treatment of Vice-President elect Wallace and United States officials accompanying him to the inauguration of the new Mexican president, shows some of the difficulties in the pathway of Pan-American solidarity.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 4:35. Sun rises tomorrow 7:20.

Now we are told that what this country needs is physical education. It does seem that way after seeing the many disqualified for physical disabilities when called to the army and navy.

A local man is said to have reformed his nagging wife in a clever way. He bribed the beauty parlor operator to tell her that talking caused wrinkles.

It has been suggested that garden tools make an ideal Christmas gift. If you give any of that kind be sure they have long handles on them.

This happened, we hear, in a college classroom. "Now students," said the instructor, "I have here a very rare object. It is the skull of an almost extinct type of gorilla. As far as I have been able to learn, there are only two of these in existence, one in the British museum, and I have the other."

There's nothing like the Christmas spirit for making people feel good. It lifts them above the commonplace. Naturally, the spirit can't last the year through. There's the question of getting back to earth.

"Would a little kiss be out of place?" asked the young man of his girl friend as they stood on the darkened porch. "Well, we may have to experiment a little," giggled the young lady. "It's so dark we can hardly see each other."

Speaking of Leap Year casualties says a local grouch, the greatest trouble is that a man will fall in love with the gleam of an eye and then marry the whole girl.

Kind words are very good, but something more substantial is better when it is needed.

She had called on a friend who had just moved into a new house. Together the two had gone around the place, and then settled down for a chat over a cup of tea.

The visitor still was thinking about the house.

"Darling," she said, "I didn't think to mention it before, but I just remembered that you have the cutest little bay window."

"Indeed!" said the woman of the house, decidedly coldly.

Dutiful children seldom "give mother a home." As a rule, they merely give her a room and hotel service in a home where she never feels free to do anything.

Never mind what Pap says about the expense of Christmas. Under the crust he loves it.

Dan tells about the time he was tuning in the radio and felt a twinge of pain. "I do believe I'm getting lumbago," he remarked. "Tune'er out, Dan," advised a visiting friend. "You know darned well we won't be able to understand a word of what they say."

Good Taste

By FRANCINE MARTEL

Just as every boy should be taught to become a man among men, every girl should be taught to become a woman among women. Each of us should learn to like his or her own sex. Men who associate almost entirely with women become soft and women who associate almost entirely with men become hard.

Beware of a girl who is unpopular with the other girls at school, or in her crowd, and the woman at whom the other women in her afternoon bridge club or other feminine circles look askance.

The girl in the office who goes to lunch with one of the other girls as often as with one of the men remains popular with both sexes. Indeed, if you will study the workers in any large organization you will find the girl who is popular with the men and the women is almost invariably one who is generally liked by her own sex. Subconsciously, worthwhile men are influenced by what their women friends think of girls with whom they go. Of course, I am referring to that substantial attraction between the sexes that leads to marriage.

This is an age when women, young and old, can pal around together in the most places of amusement with out male escorts. In other words, our sisters have won their liberty and no longer sit languishing at home when no man happens to invite them out.

Reader's Questions Answered
Question: My fiance is going to the hospital to be operated on. He will be there two or three weeks. I have never been to visit a man in the hospital. Do I take flowers?—Georgette.

Answer: Either send or take flowers to him about twice a week. If he is fond of reading, give him a good book or two.

Question: On which side of plate should the knife and fork be placed when one has finished eating?—D.

Answer: They should be placed side by side, close together with the handles toward the right side of the plate. And remember that the place must not be pushed back after you have finished eating. It must remain where it was originally placed until removed when the table is cleared.

Question: What is proper for a daughter-in-law to wear at the funeral of her husband's mother?—Young Wife.

Answer: She should wear black but not necessarily crepe.

"Well, I'm good at flirting—your husband told me so. And he said I'm better looking than you," said the maid.

"That will do," said the lady. "No, I'm going to talk some more. I kiss better than you do. Want to know who said so? Well, whether you want to know or don't want to know, I'll tell you who said so—your chauffeur said so," said the maid.

What's What At A Glance

Small Town Draftees Have Equal Chance
No Discrimination Predicted By Leader
Selective Service Act Is Cited By Snow

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Selective service administrators are extremely sensitive to any suggestion that there'll be the slightest discrimination under the law to the disadvantage of draftees from the average American's smallish town or rural community in comparison with boys from the big cities.

Major Gordon Snow of Salt Lake City is particularly well qualified to discuss the subject. He's a reserve officer who was called to a year's active duty at national headquarters in Washington shortly after the selective service act's passage. He administered the draft law in his native state of Utah and was intimately associated with the country-wide organization during the last World war.

"The fact is," says the major, "that the spirit underlying the selective service law is finding its truest expression in our relatively small population centers and the farming districts surrounding them. That's because the basic idea is that a man shall be inducted or deferred by a board of his neighbors and out in the sticks his neighbors know him more intimately than they're likely to know him in any one of our metropolitan areas. That is to say, a country board's members are pretty sure to be personally familiar with a registrant's circumstances. Consequently they're tolerably certain to classify him with a minimum chance of injustice either to himself or to the nation generally."

Major Snow referred to the elaborate precautions provided in the selective training and service act and its accompanying regulations to protect the social and economic interests of communities as well as individual registrants.

"A man's position," he pointed out, "is apt to be clear cut in his little home town or the town his term's adjacent. His local board will know offhand whether John Smith should be retained to cultivate his acres or whether young Doctor Brown can be spared to the army without crippling medical facilities in his vicinity."

"The validity of Jim Jones' claim for deferment because of dependents can be determined at a glance."

"It's even probable that the examining physician in a small place will be acquainted with the general physical condition of many prospective selectees, so that disqualifying defects, which in larger centers become apparent only at the army induction stations, will readily be detected at the source."

"From these considerations it should prove true that our suburban and rural life won't be unduly disturbed by selective service."

"Indeed, there'll be a quickening of national life—a closer contact with the spirit of democracy—a livelier sense of its meaning and of the dangers which threaten it."

"Each man who goes to a training camp will carry to it with him a part of his community and he'll return to it with a better idea of what it is that he's prepared himself to defend."

"Time for sacrifices," of course. Some of them may be poignant. But it's a time for sacrifices.

"The village garage may be sadly handicapped when one of its two employees goes off to camp. But, remember, he goes to help make sure that there'll continue to be a village garage, with a pump where a man can fill his tank without producing a ration ticket signed by some over-lording commissar."

"One-man businesses may close temporarily and their various communities miss them. The lone businessman, however, will be helping to preserve a way of life in which one-man businesses are possible."

"Dreams and plans may have to be put aside for the time. But they'll be better dreams and stronger plans when the men who cherish them come back to them."

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

The Post Election Sag

Washington, Dec. 19. DURING the last campaign one of the arguments used against Mr. Willkie was that if he were elected there would follow a period of Administration stagnation which would slow down the defense effort and otherwise be damaging to the national interests.

ON the other hand, it was contended, the Roosevelt reelection would mean that with all politics barred, the armament program would be pushed with redoubled vigor and the country immediately go into high gear both as to defense and foreign policy, particularly aid vital to England. The incontrovertible fact, however, is that exactly the thing that was predicted by Willkie would slow down the defense effort and otherwise be damaging to the national interests.

FOR six weeks there has been no White House leadership on anything at all. For the last two weeks the President has been away on a battleship unnecessarily "inspecting" air bases in the Caribbean Sea. In the meantime, his

THE MYSTERY VITAMIN
There is one vitamin still very much of a mystery, but enough is known about it to make it of great interest to me as a country doctor—Vitamin K, which has been discovered to be one of the influential factors in blood clotting.

For years one of the largest single causes of death of babies at birth has been the so-called birth injury that produces internal bleeding. Very often the doctor in attendance has examined the infant without discovering any injury, then it bled internally until it died. The cause of death has been assigned to the use of instruments, to the anaesthetic, or the doctor's carelessness.

Now we know one common weakness amongst new born babies is that their blood won't clot properly. Not long ago a Danish researcher discovered that Vitamin K helped to make blood clot. The next step was to give the vitamin to expectant mothers just before the child was born. It reduced infant fatalities.

You all know how blood clots. You cut your finger, and for a moment or two, the blood flows freely. Then a clot forms, and the bleeding gradually stops as the clot spreads over the whole wound, sealing it. Well, imagine what would happen if that blood lost its power to clot. You would go on and on bleeding even if the wound were small, until you died from loss of blood.

That is precisely what happens with many new-born babies. I've seen babies that bled after you tied the umbilical cord. In the country where I practised for 35 years, there were no nurses. You attended a birth, finished up as soon as you could, and then hurried on to the next call—there was always someone waiting. That meant you had to trust the newborn child and mother to untrained help. Again and again I've come back in a couple of days to find the baby white and weak because a little blood had been seeping out of the tied end of the umbilical cord. The blood just wouldn't clot.

The same happened sometimes when boys were circumcised and I made it a practice to wait until they were 10 days or two weeks old because I was afraid of them bleeding to death if I did the operation before that time. Occasionally, an operation had to be done at once because the child couldn't pass his urine and trouble with bleeding resulted.

Sometimes at child birth bleeding takes place in the brain cavity. If this happens and much blood flows, the baby dies. If the bleeding isn't so extensive, the child usually lives. But this bleeding, with the resultant pressure, often destroys or impairs some of the brain and you have a mentally deficient child. Vitamin K can be used to reduce the number of these cases.

'DEAD' MAN SUED FOR REFUSING TO PAY FOR FUNERAL

(International News Service)

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia—Alexander Kavapoulos, a wealthy merchant of a nearby town, has been sued for refusing to pay the costs of his own funeral.

After some weeks of serious sickness, Kavapoulos was declared officially dead by several physicians, who examined his body. The coffin with the body of the "dead" merchant was transported to a distant place, where it was to be buried. The funeral carriage had to pass a stony road and the coffin was repeatedly shaken from one side to the other. Suddenly the cover of the coffin was lifted and the head of the "dead" man appeared, looking surprised at the terrified procession which followed the carriage. He jumped out and showed himself much alive.

The undertaker presented his bill to the merchant, demanding payment for all costs involved in the "funeral". Kavapoulos refused to pay and a civil court has to decide this ticklish problem.

Strange hospitality! People won't set a bear trap to break your leg, yet they wax the floor under a little rug so you'll skid.

PUERTO RICO MAY BECOME WORLD'S DIAMOND CENTER

(International News Service)

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico—This tropic isle of Uncle Sam's may become the center of the world's diamond-cutting industry.

With Holland and Belgium torn by war, officials of Puerto Rico have directed overtures to New York gem merchants suggesting that their diamonds be cut in plants now in operation here.

Holland and Belgium held a monopoly on the business until the current war rolled over them.

Diamond-cutting is a 30-year old business here. The workmen, although expert craftsmen, have been unable to break the monopoly once held by Holland and Belgium. With the European market closed, the craftsmen appealed to the insular government to bid for the mainland trade.

Italy and Japan, top the list in the number of earthquakes experienced, each country having had more than 27,000 in the last 50 years.

Great Britain Strangely Free Of Nazi Air Attacks

No Raids Made For 48 Hours

British Fliers Keep Up Attacks Upon Germany And Italy However

MYSTERY IN LULL OF NAZI RAIDERS

(International News Service)
LONDON, Dec. 19.—While Great Britain's "holiday" from Nazi bombing assaults reached the 48-hour mark, R. A. F. planes attacked objectives in both Germany and Italy during the night, it was announced today.

An official communique said that British bombers pounded Mannheim in Germany—for the third successive time—and also "successfully" ripped the northern Italy city of Milan.

"Despite bad weather which curtailed bomber operations last night, objectives at Milan and Mannheim were attacked successfully," the communique stated.

"Nothing To Report"
As for German operations over Britain, the air ministry laconically announced, for the second successive day:

"There is nothing to report."
The London Daily Telegraph commenting on the lull of German attacks on Britain, published a new warning that the Germans may be preparing for an invasion attempt.

The paper said that reconnaissance flights by isolated German planes, inactivity of Nazi fighter and daylight bombing squadrons and other considerations support belief that the Nazi force may be preoccupied with preparations for an attempted invasion of England at the German-held French bases.

According to the Telegraph the "decisive defeat of the Luftwaffe by the R. A. F." hardly accounts for the "present lack of enterprise shown by Nazi airmen."

New Wilmington Firemen Get Two Calls During Day

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Dec. 19.—New Wilmington firemen responded to two alarms during the morning.

At 7:30 o'clock, a call was received that the ruins of the old college barn, west of Browne Hall, were afire and the firemen responded.

No effort was made to put out the blaze, however, as there was nothing burning but the remains of the college barn, badly ruined by fire last fall. It is believed the ruins caught fire from debris that was burned on Wednesday.

At 8:45 o'clock the second call for firemen was received, caused by a minor blaze in the mail truck bringing mail into New Wilmington from New Castle. No mail was burned and the small blaze, apparently caused by a short circuit, was quickly extinguished.

A whistling number was offered by Louise Shaffer, and a duet including Sara Nitsche and Josephine Jenkins, added further.

Door prizes were carried off by Roseann Hagan and Helen Russo at the close of the evening.

The affair was capably handled by members of the Executive Committee.

Burns Fatal To Harry V. Wolfe

Ellwood Fire Chief Dies This Morning After Long Illness

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 19.—Harry V. Wolfe, aged 54 years, Chief of the Ellwood City Fire Department, passed away at 10:45 o'clock this morning at the Ellwood City hospital, where he had been confined for several weeks.

Mr. Wolfe was critically burned last spring at his home in Todd avenue, when he became ill in the bathroom, and fainted. As he fell his bathrobe caught fire from a gas heater. For thirty years he had been a member of the Ellwood Fire Department and was elected to the office of Chief about three years ago. He lived most of his lifetime in the Ellwood vicinity. Mr. Wolfe was a quiet, unassuming man, who will long be remembered for his kindness and helpfulness to his scores of friends and associates. His death is regretted by the entire community.

He was a member of the Beaver Valley Fire Chief's Association and the Western Pennsylvania Firemen's Association.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Lola Clyde Wolfe; one daughter, Mary Jane Wolfe, a half-sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Ibbotson both of Ellwood-New Castle road.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete this morning and will be announced.

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 19.—The co-operative roadside improvement committee of the State Commerce Department today agreed to extend its activities into the state's mountainous areas after having removed more than 900 outdoor signs from scenic "test areas" on the Lincoln and William Penn highways.

The new areas are the Sunshine Trail, route 16, between Waynesboro and the junction of routes 16 and 116; the Bucktail Trail, U.S. route 120, between Lock Haven and Emporium; but excluding the urban areas of Renovo, Driftwood, Sterling Run and Cameron; Penn Forest, on U.S. route 322, between Killbuck and Pottery Mills; and the Bald Eagle area over Bald Eagle mountain between U.S. route 220 and route 550.

Local committees will be appointed soon in the new areas by Commerce Secretary Richard P. Brown to co-operate in the four-month old campaign to rid scenic areas of Pennsylvania of objectionable roadside conditions.

The test areas where the sign-removal campaign has been in effect are near Caledonia Park and between Chambersburg and Greensburg along the Lincoln highway, U.S. route 30; between Blairsville and Hollidaysburg, between Huntingdon and Hollidaysburg; and between Lewistown and Amity Hall on the William Penn highway, U.S. route 22.

SHARING THE SHEPHERDS' JOY

(Christmas Lesson)
Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

The Angels and the Shepherds

"Glory to God in the highest; and on earth peace among men in whom He is well pleased."—Luke 2:14.

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Dec. 22 is Luke 2:8-20, the Golden Text being Luke 2:14. "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men in whom He is well pleased.")

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
Once more we come to the Christmas season that so long ago ushered in peace and goodwill toward men. And still the wars go on and multiply and men's hearts, instead of being filled with joy and thanksgiving, hold hatred and thoughts of revenge.

How long, Oh Lord, how long, is our cry. How long before men's stupidity and wickedness give way to brotherhood and the Christlike life, and bring about the end of wars. How long before peace shall come to a suffering world?

We go back to the lovely story of our Lord's birth and read and try to comfort our hearts with His message.

"And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed."

"And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city."

"And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judaea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem."

David, which is called Bethlehem, because he was of the house and lineage of David."

And Mary, his espoused wife, was with him."

And while they were in Bethlehem on this mission, Mary gave birth to her Son, and she wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a manger because there was no room for them at the inn. Thus simply St. Luke tells the story of His birth.

Shepherds Hear the Message.

"And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the fields, keeping watch over their flock by night."

Some have asked how it was that shepherds were watching their flocks so late in the season. One answer is that we are not sure it was in December that our Lord was born, although there is no adequate reason for changing the date.

Or it might be that the shepherds were not on the cold hillside, but far down toward the Jordan valley, where it would have been mild and abundant pasture.

"And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid."

"And the angel said unto them, Fear not; for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people."

"For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

"And this shall be a sign unto you. Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger."

"And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, 'Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, goodwill toward men.'"

Wasn't it marvelous that of all the people on the earth at that time, that these simple, humble shepherds were the ones to get the message of the birth of a Saviour? Possibly those who would have thought themselves more wise would not have believed had they seen the angel and heard the song. They would have tried to reason it away. But the shepherds looked at one another in wonder, and said: "Let us now go into Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us."

They find the Holy Babe.

So they went to Bethlehem, and found the Babe, with His mother and father, lying in the manger. "And when they had seen Him," St. Luke tells us, "they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child."

All who heard the shepherds' story wondered, but Mary, the gentle mother, "kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart."

Luke does not tell of the three wise men who also made the journey to see the Babe, and we hear no more of the shepherds who "returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them."

We need a Saviour more than ever in these times, and we ponder the story of His birth, and as true followers we must resolve that as far as humanly possible, we will follow in His footsteps, because the world never will be a place of peace and goodwill until men accept His teachings and grow to be like Him.

We, too, like the shepherds, must have faith that He can save even a world gone mad as this one seems to have done, and so join the chorus of glorifiers and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them."

So they went to Bethlehem, and found the Babe, with His mother and father, lying in the manger. "And when they had seen Him," St. Luke tells us, "they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child."

All who heard the shepherds' story wondered, but Mary, the gentle mother, "kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart."

Luke does not tell of the three wise men who also made the journey to see the Babe, and we hear no more of the shepherds who "returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them."

We need a Saviour more than ever in these times, and we ponder the story of His birth, and as true followers we must resolve that as far as humanly possible, we will follow in His footsteps, because the world never will be a place of peace and goodwill until men accept His teachings and grow to be like Him.

We, too, like the shepherds, must have faith that He can save even a world gone mad as this one seems to have done, and so join the chorus of glorifiers and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them."

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Glaucoma causes 11 1/2 per cent of all blindness in Pennsylvania.
This eye disease is little understood by the layman.

The walls of the eyeball are filled with a transparent fluid.
This fluid controls the necessary inside pressure on the eyeball.

The inflow and outflow of this fluid is nicely balanced.
When inflow exceeds outflow the pressure becomes too great.

Then the eyeball becomes hard and glaucoma exists.

The disease may be acute and painful or gradual and painless.

The latter type is more common because unattended.

Any upset in vision, blurring, or haziness, should be a warning.
Glaucoma treated early can be kept under control for some time.

Neglected glaucoma usually means blindness.

U. S. Ambassadors Will Be Sent Back To Italy And France

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Secretary of State Hull Wednesday announced that American ambassadors will be rushed back to Italy and France—where the United States has been represented by lesser diplomatic officials for several months—immediately after the holidays.

Ambassador William Phillips will fly back to his post in Rome and Admiral William D. Leahy will proceed to Vichy to take up his new duties as ambassador to France.

In view of the momentous events now shaping in those war-weakened and troubled nations considerable significance was attached to the secretary's announcements.

Titans Defeat Indiana Team

Westminster Annexes
Fourth Victory Of Season
On Wednesday Night
45 To 34

FOX HIGH SCORER;
GETS 16 POINTS

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Dec. 19.—Chalking up their fourth straight win of the 1940-41 season, the Westminster Titans kept their loss-column free as they took a 45-34 decision from the Indiana Teachers here last night. Off to an early 9-0 lead, the Titans kept a safe margin between themselves and the Indiana Teachers.

After the first half, Westminster changed from a zone-defense to man-to-man play, as the Indiana Teachers, unable to break through to the basket, began locating the basket from midfloor. Throughout the game, the Titans kept from eight to twelve points ahead of the Red and White team.

High-point honors for the evening went to Lee Fox, Titan forward, with the remaining points distributed fairly even among the remaining Westminster quintet.

Indiana's Deane was follow-up in scoring honors, with 11 points on three goals and five throws. At the foul-line Westminster was deadly accurate, making 13 out of 15 tries.

Once again Westminster demonstrated that this year's Titan team is a five-man threat, instead of being built around a single scoring star.

Opening Quarter
In the opening quarter, Westminster ran up a 9-0 score before Indiana found the Titan basket, as Spak made two free ones, Dumire counted on a foul-toss, Ridd scored under the basket on a cross-floor from Dumire and Fox counted on a pass from Spak, followed by an under-basket counter by Spak.

Indiana's Wagner broke the ice for the Indiana as he scored from deep in the side territory, after the Red and White failed to penetrate the Titan defenses. Indiana counted twice more as Hogg found the basket on a spinner and Wagner flipped a good one on a set-shot from deep center along the sidelines.

With the score 9-6 in their favor, the Titans started another scoring-parade as Dumire scored on Ridd's shot off the bankboard and Dumire went under a pass from Spak for a sleeper-shot. Hogg took De-Matt's missed foul-shot and sank it, then added a free toss on a personal. The Titans scored three points to end the quarter as Dumire's one-handed spinner toss followed by a free one.

Polish Falcons To Open Sunday

Famous St. Marys Team Of Beaver Falls Will Help Falcons Raise 1940-41 Curtain

Sunday, December 22, the Polish Falcons will open the 1940-41 basketball season at home by meeting the strong and famous St. Marys team of Beaver Falls. The game will be preceded by a preliminary at 2 o'clock.

The Falcons were the city and county champions last year, winning the title at Washington High gym in the annual floor tourney, by defeating the cream of the basketball teams in Lawrence county. The Falcons will again be coached by Henry Koszela, the veteran who has turned out many fine teams. The team will be managed by Howard "Red" Shoaff as to the business end of the team, with Gabby Kendra the booking agent.

The following will make up the Falcon roster this year—Marion "Muzzy" Sniezek, Kash Koszela, Paul Morrison, Pop Adams, Stan Potoczny, Flash Wenda, Johnny "Feller" Carik, Gabby Kendra, and Walt Kwolek.

For games with the Falcons write to 109 Charter street or call 9122. The Falcons will also sponsor a reserve team, a junior team and a girls team. The Falcons have been working out each night at the hall and are rounding into shape.

Sportsmen Plan Big Trap Shoot

Andrew W. Dodds, president of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's Association announced today that a Christmas trap shoot would be held by the organization at the Fair Grounds Saturday, December 21, which would start at noon and end sometime after dark. Turkeys, ducks and other fowls will be offered for prizes.

This was the second straight year Bucky Walters pitched more innings than any other National League pitcher. No sign yet that Cincinnati fans are getting tired of watching him.

The Green Bay Packers have won five championships in pro football, and in 1928, 1929 and 1930 won 23 straight games, which stands as a record in the National League.

Games Wednesday In Church Loop

St. George Greeks, Mahoning, Christians Win In League Battles

Three more games were played last night in the New Castle church basketball league at the "Y" floor. The first game saw the Croton team losing to the Central Christians in a tough battle 31 to 27. Nelson and Baldwin were the standout performers.

In the second game the St. Marys team was nosed out by the Mahoning, 25 to 22, with Gilboy, Kelly, Standish and Wilson starting. The third and final game found the Central Presbyterians dropping to the St. George Greeks 35 to 23. Nick Lucas, Cogey Othites and Johnny Poleno were the Greek stars, with Kelso and Robinson best for the losers.

The Eye That Stopped a Fight

A shiner that really is a shiner. It belongs to Al McCoy, Boston heavyweight, whose handlers refused to leave the ring in the sixth round of his bout with Joe Louis, in Boston, for fear the eye would be permanently damaged. The fight was awarded Louis on a technical knockout. (Central Press)

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

It was our privilege a few nights ago to chat with three ex-fighters who were in their prime today would be making pugilistic history and the champions of three classes, heavyweight, middleweight and welterweight, would be compelled to look quite well to their laurels. We're writing of Tom McMahon, George Chip, and Mickey Forkins, the latter of Warren, Ohio, but a former New Castle fighter. Forkins came along a few nights ago and later took Tom McMahon to Warren, O. While the trio was clustered around a table here the fistie doings of each naturally came in for an airing and remembering Mickey in the days when he was a splendid boxer and somewhat of a phantom to some opponents it might not be amiss to recall a few of the feats.

He got his pugilistic baptism under the guidance of the late Jimmie Dime. He fought Jimmie Jones six or seven times, outpointed Young Fisher of Syracuse after Fisher had knocked out Canadian, Jimmie Delaney, Dick Evans, Johnny Karr (who at that time was a right good boy) Italian Joe Gans and boxed Lew Tender in Madison Square garden.

Mickey's last appearance here was against Ralph Sheppard, a rugged coal miner at Cascade Park. Forkins hit Sheppard many times, in fact so often Forkins wondered what was holding up the Hard coaler. Later on Mickey went under the management of the late Larry Lichenstein of Chicago and later yet under the wing of Phil Gaffney, New Orleans.

Mickie was a smart boxer. He didn't stand still and let anyone knock him bow-legged. He was the type that kept moving and when he was forced to slow up knew how to slide his head or roll away from the intended soporifics. Were he fighting as a welterweight today Mr. Fritz Zivic would have lots to think about were he to fight Forkins.

McMahon fought 'em all, as all local fans know. They're fully conversant with his history. His big feat was taking on the mountainous Jess Willard. Playing the role of "David vs. Goliath" Tom succeeded in peppering big Jess in machine-gun fashion to capture the popular decision at Youngstown.

Tom was as tough as they come. He could hit very well and if he was boxing today the Paychecks, Savolds, Dorazio, Boyds, Burmans et al. would be probably battered out. In fights with such chaps as Gunboat Smith, Carl Morris, Bat Levinsky and others of yesteryear McMahon left his mark and those feats have become indelible ring history.

And Chip? He reached the peak, the middleweight title. He won the title at Pittsburgh after Frank Klaus had taken the early rounds. Some fans were leaving the hall believing, of course, that Chip would be outpointed. However, Chip managed to get over that necessary "one and down" went Klaus. George won the title. He knocked out Klaus a second time.

Imagine tappers like Overlin getting away with Chip? In our opinion they wouldn't be able and fellows like Beloise who like to stand up and punch probably would be duck soup for George who liked nothing better than for some opponent to literally "tear into him."

Earle (Greasy) Neal has resigned as assistant football coach at Yale to coach the Pittsburgh Steelers. Jimmie Dunn, postcards season's greetings to New Castle fans. Pennsylvania Athletic commission favors a Louis-Conn bout with Pittsburgh as the battle ground. Billy Soose will fight Tami Maurello of New York in Madison Square garden, January 3. He has beaten both Ken Overlin and Tony Zale. Johnny Layton, billiards player, Sedalia, is in serious condition, the result of an auto crash. Charles Weber, 61, vice president of the Cubs has retired. Fritz Zivic is favored to beat Lew Jenkins, Friday night, in New York before the sixth round.

Four Cage Games For Local Teams On Friday Night

Before starting the Yuletide vacation, Class B quints swish nets in four games Friday night.

Shenango Township High makes its home debut against Coach "Art" McCombs' Aspinwall High flippers. The East New Castle five, winners of two games, feel confident of downing the streamlined Aspinwall combination.

At Union High, Union entertains Princeton; New Wilmington's powerhouse journeys to Mercer while East Brook performs at Mt. Jackson High.

After tomorrow night's clashes, local teams will rest until January 3, the starting date of the perennial Section 20 race.

K. Pulaski Team To Play Tonight

The K. Pulaski basketball team will play the Neville A. A. of Ambridge tonight at the K. Pulaski floor at 8:30 o'clock. It was announced today by Manager Henry Mateja.

In the preliminary game the K. Pulaski Reserves will battle the East Brook Ex-High Stars at 7:30 o'clock. The K. Pulaski team recently opened the season by trimming the fast Struthers A. C. team 36 to 34, with H. Mateja and Guz starring. The Reserves lost to the New Castle Indies in the preliminary game 40 to 34.

Spud Davis, Pittsburgh catcher, has hit 300 or better in nine seasons. Last season his mark was 331.

BOWLING

Hicks rolled high for one game with 166 and also high for three games with 416 in the Public assistance Duckpin loop. Bonds was high for one game with 633 and also high for three games with 1965. In the Golfers circuit Watkins was high for one game with 222 and high for three games with 506. Divots holds similar honors for teams with 636 and 1616.

Mrs. Joe Louis Expecting Stork

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis said today he would be glad to fight "anybody and everybody they can dig up for me."

After consulting with Promoter Mike Jacobs he said he would be glad to fight in Kansas City for a church benefit conducted by Dr. Burris Jenkins, father of the famous cartoonist of the same name. Joe also is considering a bout with Arturo Godoy in Los Angeles sometime in April.

He said he would remain here to see the Lew Jenkins-Fritz Zivic fight tomorrow night and would then go west. He plans to return here January 10 to start training for his fight with Red Burman in Madison Square Garden January 31. "I'll be a poppa by that time," Joe revealed, adding that he was expecting the arrival of a new champion in the family next month. "And what's more," he declared proudly, "I'll bet anybody 3 to 1 it'll be a boy."

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—Not one of the 22 men on the Indiana basketball squad of 22 men is from out of the state. Ft. Wayne and Huntington each contribute three men. The event is open to the general public.

High Team Will Play Youngstown

New Castle Hopes To Start Winning Streak At Expense Of South High

The New Castle High basketball team will play at the new South High Youngstown gym on Friday night, with the New Castle High Reserves playing the South Reserves in the preliminary game, at 7 o'clock.

The New Castle squad will go by bus to the Ohio city at 5:45 o'clock. New Castle having dropped to Farrell and Sharon in a row, will try hard on Friday night to start a winning streak.

Youngstown has a fine team this year and will no doubt give the locals a lot in the way of competition. New Castle High will not be seen at home until January 10 when All-quippa High plays here in a Section Three encounter.

Sportsmen To Stage Big Turkey Shoot

The Lawrence County Sportsmen's Association is sponsoring a big turkey shoot at the New Castle fair grounds range on Saturday. The event will start at 2 o'clock and continue until late Saturday night.

The range is well lighted. Anybody wanting to shoot who does not have a gun, may get one at the range. There will be plenty of guns available for everybody. The event is open to the general public.

Feller Ranking Hurler In 1940

American League Official Figures Reveal Cleveland Pitcher To Be Tops

By PAT ROBINSON
(International News Service Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—The official American League averages, released today, confirm what you already knew; namely, that Bob Feller, young fire-ball artist of the Cleveland Indians, was the ranking pitcher of the year.

If there is anyone who doubts it, he need consider only a few of Bob's accomplishments to be convinced.

Bob started the year by pitching his first no-hit, no run game against the Chicago White Sox on opening day, the first such opening day feat in history.

From there he went on to win 27 games against 11 defeats with an earned run average of 2.62. This placed him second to Ernie Bonham, of the New York Yankees, whose earned run average was 1.91. However, Bonham appeared in only 12 games whereas Bob took the mound in 43, which was more than any other pitcher was asked to work.

And for the third straight year the same two men ran one-two in strike outs. You guessed them, of course—Bob Feller and Buck Newsome of Detroit. Bob boosted his strike-out total to 261 and Buck fanned 161.

Feller Is Tough
Incidentally, Bob also pitched the most innings—320—faced the most batters—1168, and led in total complete games pitched—31. In addition to his no-hitter, he also pitched a one-hitter, a two-hitter, three three-hitters and a pair of four-hit games. You may judge from this that Bob was a little bit tough to cur.

Although Feller, Al Smith and Al Milnar of the Indians pitched their team into the top spot among the earned run averages, Bump Hadley of the same club had the unenviable distinction of tying Bob Harris of the Browns in being shelled from the mound, each suffering that ignominy 20 times.

Nevertheless, the Indian pitchers as a group allowed only 3.63 runs per game and were followed closely by the White Sox, Yankees, pennant-winning Tigers, Senators, Red Sox, Browns and Athletics. The only surprise in this line-up is to find that the Browns and Athletics had pitchers who were worse than the Red Sox.

But there is no surprise in those Feller records—that boy is tops.

Junior Church League Saturday

The New Castle Junior church league basketball schedule will start at the "Y" floor at 4 o'clock, with the Wesley team battling the St. Marys boys.

The game at 6:15 o'clock puts the Epworth and First Presbyterians together for a contest. The other games follow in this order: First U. P. vs. First Christians, and First Methodists vs. Third U. P.

DUKES DO WELL

Last year the Duke hoopers won 17 and lost only one contest—a two point defeat at the hands of Indiana University—and the current grid squad emulated this action by winning all but one game, which was lost to Ole Miss by a 14-6 margin.

ed the scoring on a pass from Riddi. Indiana's Deane made a free one, and Fox again made good on a one handed jump shot on a pass from Spak. With perfect passing precision, Westminster worked Spak under the basket to add another marker, and the score stood 23-10 for the Blue and White.

Wagner, Indian scoring-ace sank a deep one, followed by Brant's toss from the sidelines. Westminster countered with four points on Wasik's close-in basket, and Riddi's pass to Fox. Deane dribbled the length of the floor to count for Indiana, and followed with a free one. The half ended as the Indians counted three points on Brant's side shot and Deane's free toss, followed by O'Hara's single-point, to give the Titans an eight point advantage 28-20.

Third Frame

The Indians and Titans kept their ten-point difference in score through out the third quarter, which opened 28-20 and ended 39-29. Riddi opened the third frame scoring by making good on retrieving his own missed shot. Hogg scored close in and under-the-basket jump shot.

Riddi picked up a single point, followed by Deane's five points for Indiana on a free shot, a side-toss and a long toss. With the score 38-28 Fox clicked on a pass from Spak, followed by one-pointers by Deane and Wasik. Moyer ended the third session scoring by sinking two points from midfloor for Indiana.

Brant added two points to open the fourth period on a sleeper and Wasik slipped two free-throws thru. Cicero made his first counter of the evening on a long high-arch, and Riddi's jump spinner toss again kept the Titans 10 points ahead. Following Fox's set shot from the side-lines Coach Washbaugh sent his second and third-string players into the game. Deane's foul toss ended the scoring, and the score stood 45-34 for the Blue and White.

Favor Zivic To Defeat Jenkins

Welterweight Champ And Lightweight Title Holder To Battle On Friday Night

By LAWTON CARVER

(International News Service Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Welterweight, Champion Fritz Zivic, of Pittsburgh, and Lightweight Champion Lew Jenkins, of Sweetwater, Tex., were pronounced all dressed up and ready today for a real good blood-letting in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. That one of them will be knocked senseless seems certain, and one or both of them may leave the ring in slight disrepair in other respects. Zivic is rough going and sets that kind of pace, and Jenkins goes out for an early kill, knowing that if he doesn't get his man soon he's liable to be got himself. He's a scrawny bag of bones and doesn't go a distance any too well.

These seeming naturals sometimes develop into dull, uninteresting and wearisome things that just drag on to their appointed conclusion and this one could follow that pattern, but probably won't. Zivic likes rough going and sets that kind of pace, and Jenkins goes out for an early kill, knowing that if he doesn't get his man soon he's liable to be got himself. He's a scrawny bag of bones and doesn't go a distance any too well.

The wagering is on Zivic at around 9 to 5, due to his edge in experience and the weight advantage of about eight pounds that he will hold. No title will be at stake, and Zivic by agreement must come in at 143.

A line on the two might be gleaned from this, although, on the other hand, it might not be indicative. Henry Armstrong stopped Jenkins in six rounds in July and Zivic beat Armstrong into a 15th round collapse for his title in October.

White Sox Peddle McNair To Tigers

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—The Chicago White Sox took another step in their wedding out and building up process today with the sale of Eric ("Boob") McNair to the Detroit Tigers for a sum announced only as in excess of the waiver price of $7,500.

Sale of McNair, who served alternately at second and third base for the Sox during two seasons, followed bolstering of the team's infield with the acquisition earlier in the week of Dario Lodigiani from the Philadelphia A's in exchange for Pitcher Jack Knott.

McNair was ailing most of last season, but returned to action just before the schedule ended and appeared back in form. A White Sox spokesman explained that although more than the waiver price was obtained for McNair, all other clubs in the American League had waived on him and that therefore the Tigers could buy him without violating the league rule banning trading by the champion.

HINKLE MUFFS GRID RECORD BY A FOOT

GREEN BAY, Wis., Dec. 19.—Clarke Hinkle, Green Bay fullback, finished the 1940 schedule within 12 yards of gaining the lifetime National League record for ground gaining.

The former Bucknell star has a total of 3,467 yards in nine seasons, compared with 3,478 yards compiled by Ace Ginter with Portsmouth, Detroit and Brooklyn in eight seasons. Hinkle moved past Cliff Battles' record to take second place during the 1940 season.

UNCLE SAM MAY GRAB BARNICLE FOR ARMY DUTY

FITCHBURG, MASS., Dec. 19.—George B. Barnicle, a Boston Bees flinger, may become the first major league baseball player to be conscripted for military training.

Assigned order No. 199, Barnicle will be given a physical examination this week and if declared fit will be subject to call for federal service on January 3, draft board officials said today.

Bernus Pierce of the Carlisle Indians returned three kick-offs for touchdowns in a game with Illinois at Chicago in 1896.

Mid-week briefs: A few hot liners scooped out of the major leagues statisticians' record books:

American league: Members of the circuit are apparently nearing a saturation point so far as record breaking is concerned. In 38.64 marks were blasted out of the books. Then, in 1939, the figures dropped to 46. Last season, only 37 old marks were eradicated. The Yanks, however, continued to hold the home run production title, lifting the loop's total home run mark to 883.

Charlie Keller of the Yanks was the best "waiter." He worked hurlers for 106 free tickets to first. Frank Crosetti, Keller's teammate, again was the pet target, being biffed 10 times. Sam Chapman of the Athletics was the strikeout king, going down 96 times. Mike Kreevich again copped the bunting title, being credited with 21 sacrifice bunts.

National league: Elbie Fletcher of the Pirates, besides receiving the most bases on balls, 119, was also hit most often, nine times. Chet Ross of the Bees was the easiest touch, whiffing 128 times. William J. Herman of the Cubs tied an odd mark when he hit into three double plays during a 13-inning game with Pittsburgh.

Linus R. Frey, Cincy, was chief base stealer, swiping 22 bassocks. Pittsburgh led the league in club batting, putting together a 276 average. The Bucs also scored the most runs, 809, and permitted their foes the most runs, 783. Harry Craft of Cincy proved the ace out-
